

Investigation of anomalously fast infrasound phases from global bolide events

Elizabeth A. Silber¹, Christoph Pilger², Miro Ronac Giannone¹, Summer Czarnowski^{3,*}, Vedant Sawal¹

¹Sandia National Laboratories, Albuquerque, NM, 87123; ²Federal Institute for Geosciences and Natural Resources (BGR), Hannover, Germany; ³North Dakota State University, Fargo, ND, 58108, USA

INTRODUCTION AND MAIN RESULTS

Infrasound signals from energetic events sometimes arrive earlier than predicted. Among 172 global bolide detections, some show anomalously fast arrivals at distances up to thousands of kilometers. We investigate whether these early arrivals result from source or propagation effects, aiming to improve interpretation and global monitoring capabilities.

*work performed during summer internship at Sandia

SNL is managed and operated by NTESS under DOE NNSA contract DE-NA0003525. The views expressed here do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the United States Government, the United States Department of Energy, or NTESS. SAND2025-11113C